

Richard T. Nolan

From: <Jerry.Holloway@Wadsworth.com>
To: "Richard T. Nolan" <canonn@adelphia.net>
Sent: Friday, October 12, 2001 3:51 PM
Subject: Re: Arrived

Great! I'm glad it looks good, and I'm really glad that we finally got our act together so you could have it.

"Richard T. Nolan" <canonn@adelphia.net> on 10/12/2001 12:47:31 PM

To: <Jerry.Holloway@Wadsworth.com>
cc:

Subject: Arrived

Jerry -

Many thanks!

The Living Issues in Philosophy CD arrived today, and I've loaded in onto my computer. Looks like a perfect job!

Best!

Dick Nolan

Note 4/4/08

Living Issues In Philosophy
CD of Textbook Supplied AT NO COST by Wadsworth Publishing.

RR Donnelley & Sons Company
Allentown Digital Services
834 North 12th Street Allentown, PA 18102

Transmittal

Date: 10/11/2001

Job Number: 33875

Batch: _____

To: Richard T Nolan

Company: Richard T Nolan

Title: Living Issues in Philosophy

Customer: Thomson

Enclosed are:

Proofs

- Samples
- Master Set _____
- Dupes _____
- RC Proofs
- Original Laser
- Bromides
- Blues
- Other _____

Foul

- Manuscript
- Foul Master
- Original Art
- Style Book
- Layouts
- Disk _____
- Other _____

Final

- Files
 - APP
 - PS
 - Hi-Res
 - Lo-Res
- Disk 1 CD
- Negs <none>
- Repro/Video
- Final Product Output Form
- Electronic Pre-Press Worksheet
- Other _____

Additional Comments: LoRes PDF file.

If anything is missing, or you have any questions regarding this title, please contact your CSR.

OXFORD

UNIVERSITY PRESS

Oxford University Press

198 Madison Avenue
New York, NY 10016-4314

212 726-6000 telephone
www.oup.com

November 19, 2001

Richard Nolan
2527 Egret Lake Drive
West Palm Beach, FL 33413-2161

Dear Richard,

Welcome to Oxford University Press! As you may know, the Higher Education Group of Oxford University Press-USA recently acquired a number of titles from Thomson Learning's Higher Education Group. As the Publisher responsible for Higher Education at OUP, I am delighted to greet you on behalf of Oxford's worldwide family.

Based in Oxford, England, Oxford University Press is one of the oldest publishers in the world and is a department of Oxford University. The American activities of the press are conducted by Oxford University Press, Inc. which is headquartered in New York City. A unique enterprise, Oxford began publishing books in 1487 and is the most wide-ranging and most international university press in the world.

Unlike most university presses, Oxford has always been a strong college textbook publisher, enjoying a long tradition of publishing textbooks from the freshman through graduate level. Our textbook lines are among the most successful publishing programs at Oxford University Press. We are selective and focused in the disciplines we have chosen to build for higher education markets. We publish in approximately one third of the total number of college disciplines on campus, with a special emphasis on the Humanities, Social Sciences, and Engineering. Our mission is to publish original books that make a contribution to the field and are of the highest academic quality, and we fulfill this mission through strong, long-term relationships with our authors and customers.

We are enthusiastic about the philosophy market. The titles we acquired in this area are complementary to other activities at Oxford University Press. We are committed to building on your success and providing the support your books deserves.

Inevitably, the acquisition of new titles presents numerous challenges. We will do our best to make the transition as smooth as possible for you. Despite our best efforts, some difficulties may surface. During this transition period, I ask for your patience.

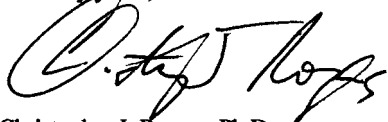

Please note the following:

Your new editor and primary contact person at Oxford University Press is Robert Miller. I'm sure you will be hearing from Robert soon, but if you have any immediate questions please contact your editor directly by email (rbm@oup-usa.org), telephone (212-726-6219), or fax (212-726-6449).

This acquisition was concluded on November 9th. Until that date, Thomson was responsible for all matters concerning your book, and inquiries about those matters should be addressed to Sean Wakely at Wadsworth. While we are certain Thomson will address your questions or concerns, we will do our best to help you in whatever way we can.

We look forward to a long and mutually productive relationship.

Sincerely yours,

Christopher J. Rogers, Ph.D.
Vice President and Publisher
Higher Education Group